

Alaska Mental Health Trust is looking for qualified applicants to join its board of trustees.

The Alaska Mental Health Trust is a catalyst for change and improvement in Alaska's mental health system and seeks to improve the lives of its beneficiaries. Beneficiaries include Alaskans with: mental illness, intellectual/developmental disabilities, substance related disorders, Alzheimer's disease or related dementia, or traumatic brain injury. If you are interested in joining this dynamic board you must have expertise in financial management and investments, resource management, or regarding Trust beneficiaries. Additionally, applicants cannot have worked for an organization or served on a board that received a grant or contract from the Trust within the last two years.

Interested applicants, please submit your letter of interest and resume to:
